The Little Seal's Story

I am a little grey seal, about six months old. I was born last autumn and after three weeks of feeding on my mother's thick, creamy milk, I was ready to look after myself. I lived on the rocks with the other baby seals and we had fun learning to swim and catch fish all by ourselves!

Now I can swim and catch fish well, but my favourite food is sandeels. I catch them by swimming just above the sand in the shallow water and deep down on the seabed. Sometimes I scuffle in the sand with my whiskers, then I suck sandeels into my mouth and swallow them whole!

I love playing with my friends in the sparkling sea. Once we were swimming in and out of scraps of floating blue fishing nets and seaweed when a piece of net caught around my neck and I couldn't get it off. As I grew bigger, it started getting tighter and tighter, rubbing off my fur and cutting into my skin.

One day I was lying on the rocks, feeling quite miserable. The sun was too hot, the seagulls were squawking too loudly and my neck was hurting too much to swim, as it stung in the salty water. I crawled across the sand to find a quiet, shady spot to rest.

That's how I found my friend Fender, who helped save my life.
